Why I'm Running

If you're like me, you're excited about the direction Kansas City is heading, but you're also wondering what we can do to keep that momentum going.

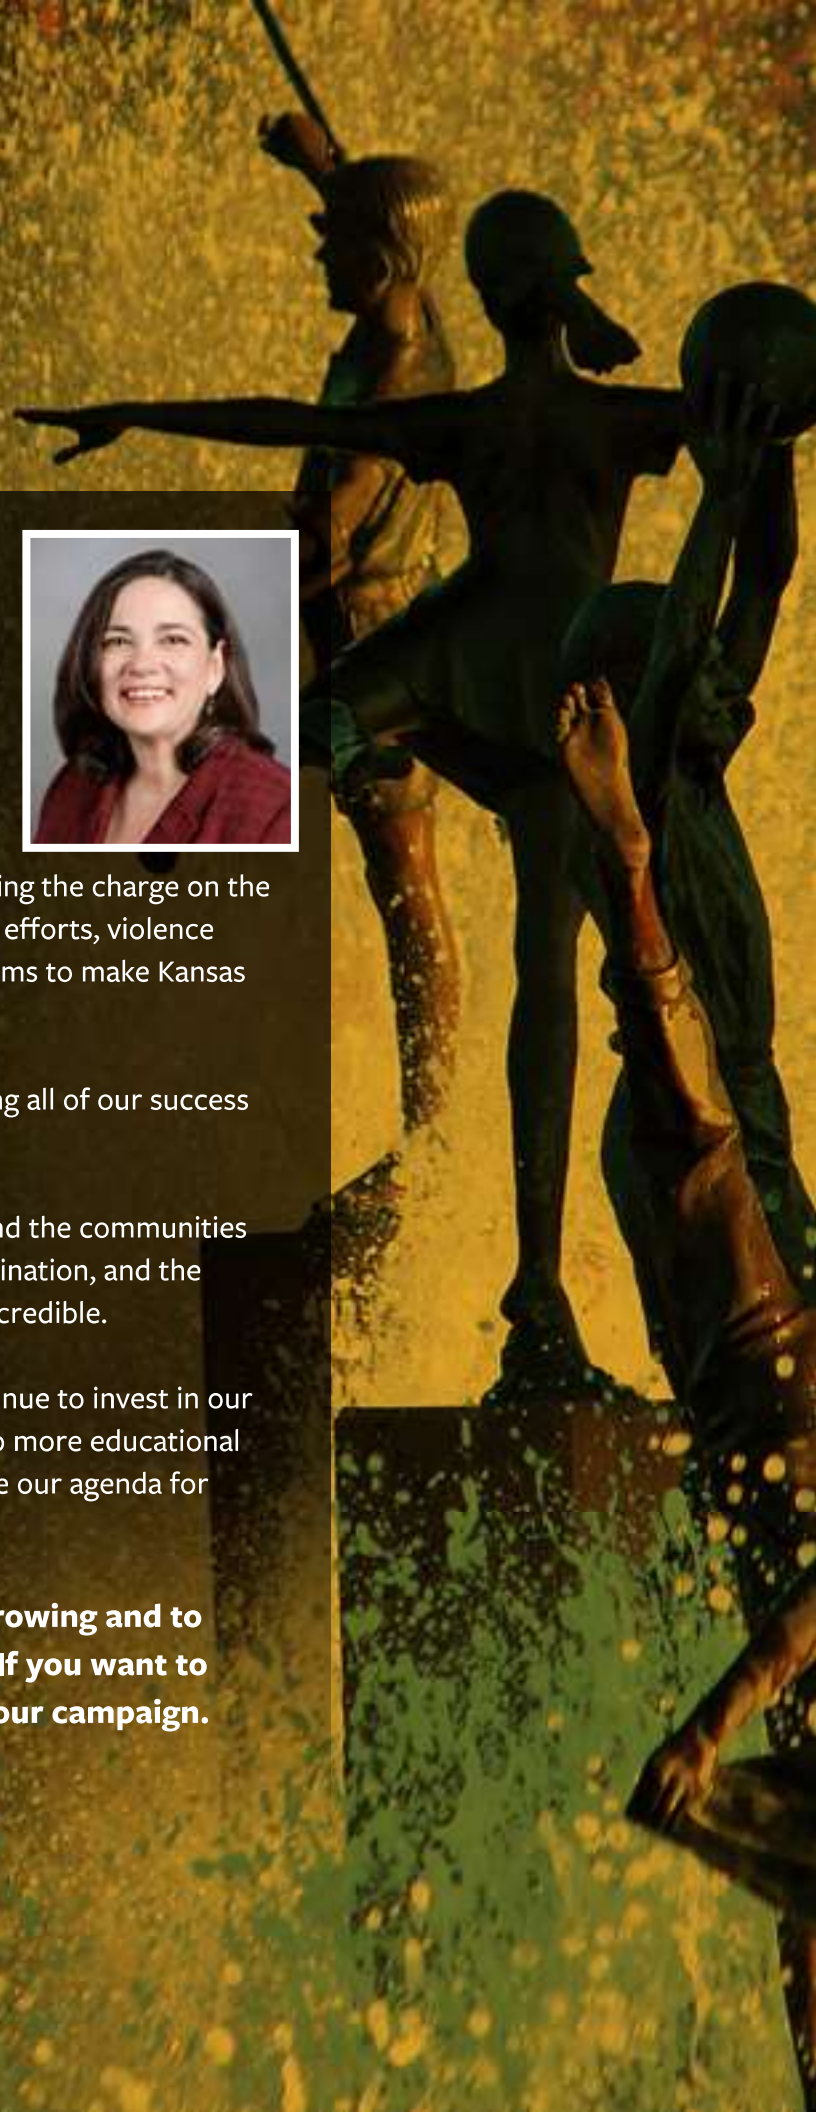

I've watched with great pride over the last decade as we've taken some incredible strides and become a world-class city. I'm honored to have helped by leading the charge on the new KCI single terminal project, streetcar expansion efforts, violence prevention strategies, and a number of other programs to make Kansas City a great place to live and work.

As we've seen KC grow, I've noticed a constant among all of our success stories: the people of Kansas City.

When we invest in the neighborhoods, the people and the communities of Kansas City, we harness the creativity, the determination, and the passion they have for our city. And the results are incredible.

And that's how we sustain our momentum. We continue to invest in our people and our neighborhoods. From job creation to more educational opportunities to stronger communities, that must be our agenda for the future.

I'm running for mayor to keep Kansas City growing and to make sure we continue to invest in our city. If you want to keep Kansas City growing, I hope you'll join our campaign.

Meet Jolie

No one is more committed than Jolie Justus to making Kansas City a place where thriving, diverse neighborhoods are home to individuals of all backgrounds who are raising families, building careers, getting an education, enjoying retirement, or simply loving everything the city has to offer.

As a Kansas City Councilmember, Jolie has worked closely with Mayor Sly James to turn Kansas City into a world-class, 21st-century city. From leading the fight for a new, single terminal at KCI to expanding Kansas City's downtown streetcar line, Jolie has helped pave the way for Kansas City's success story.

Representing Kansas City's 4th District, Jolie was appointed by Mayor James to serve as the Chair of the Airport Committee; Vice-Chair of the Finance and Governance Committee; and member of the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee.

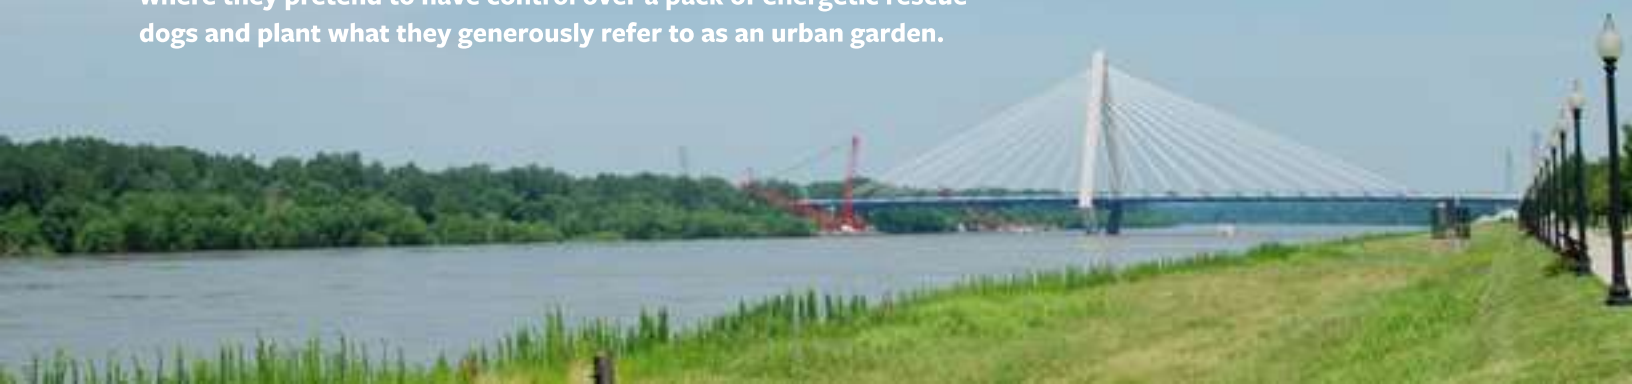

Highly regarded as one of the council's most pragmatic leaders, Jolie has the experience we need to continue growing our momentum. The Kansas City story is still being written and we need a steady hand to lead our next chapter.

Prior to serving on the City Council, Jolie represented the Kansas City area in the Missouri State Senate. There too, she earned a reputation for getting things done and working across party lines to find areas of common ground. One of her most significant accomplishments was an overhaul of the state's criminal justice code that brought out-of-date policies from the 1970s into the 21st Century. The badly needed criminal justice reform was lauded by prosecutors, law enforcement, defense lawyers and victims' advocates for creating a system that was more just, more fair, and more effective.

While in Jefferson City, she served as the Senate Democratic Leader and was the chair of the Senate Standing Committee on Progress and Development and ranking member of both the Judiciary Committee and the Senate's Committee on Jobs, Economic Development and Local Government.

Jolie is a graduate of Missouri State University and University of Missouri-Kansas City School of Law. Since 2003 Jolie has served as the Director of Pro Bono Services for Shook, Hardy & Bacon L.L.P., where she is a champion for Kansas City's most vulnerable citizens.

Jolie and her partner Lucy live in the Longfellow neighborhood, where they pretend to have control over a pack of energetic rescue dogs and plant what they generously refer to as an urban garden.

Agenda

Kansas City's next chapter must focus on ensuring that our neighborhoods are the best they can be by providing educational opportunities for everyone, closing opportunity gaps, developing responsible growth policies, and combating violent crime.

Jolie is committed to strengthening our neighborhoods so that people of all walks of life can prosper right here in America's creative crossroads.

Safer Communities

One of the biggest obstacles standing in the way of Kansas City's efforts to sustain its momentum is the city's unconscionably high crime rate, particularly the homicide rate. While other cities are experiencing a crime reduction, Kansas City is not. We cannot allow that trend to continue.

Educational Opportunity for Everyone

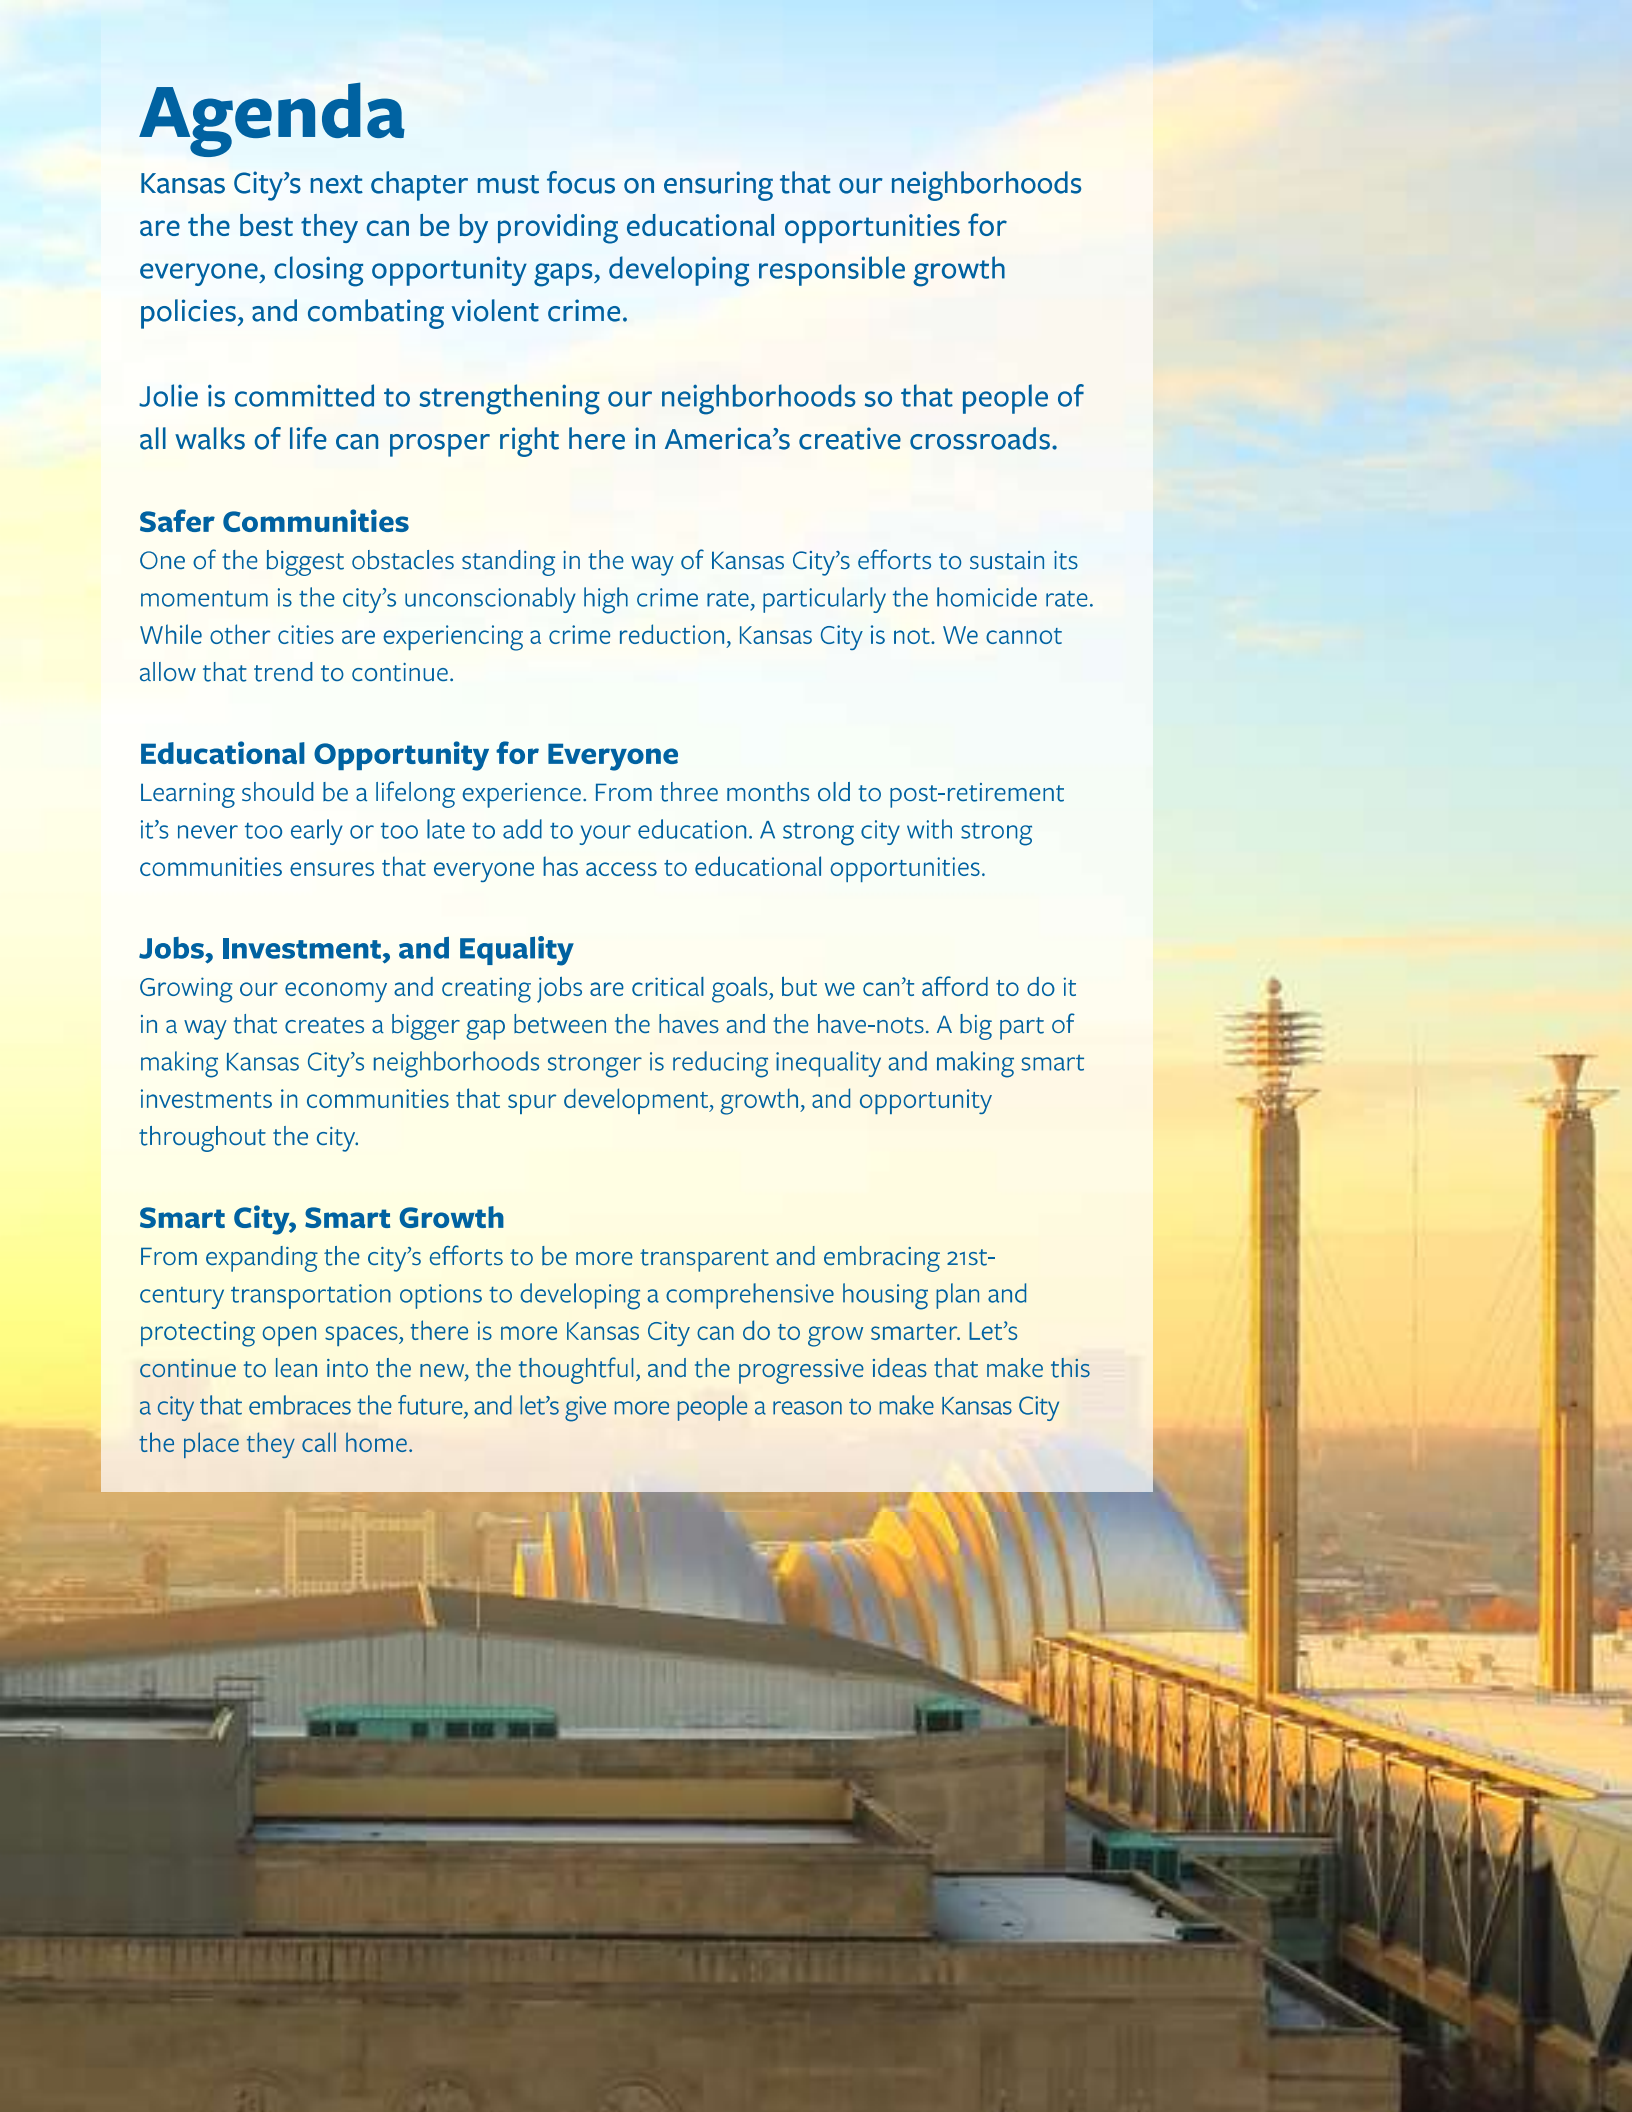

Learning should be a lifelong experience. From three months old to post-retirement it's never too early or too late to add to your education. A strong city with strong communities ensures that everyone has access to educational opportunities.

Jobs, Investment, and Equality

Growing our economy and creating jobs are critical goals, but we can't afford to do it in a way that creates a bigger gap between the haves and the have-nots. A big part of making Kansas City's neighborhoods stronger is reducing inequality and making smart investments in communities that spur development, growth, and opportunity throughout the city.

Smart City, Smart Growth

From expanding the city's efforts to be more transparent and embracing 21st-century transportation options to developing a comprehensive housing plan and protecting open spaces, there is more Kansas City can do to grow smarter. Let's continue to lean into the new, the thoughtful, and the progressive ideas that make this a city that embraces the future, and let's give more people a reason to make Kansas City the place they call home.
